RETURNS HOME FROM HONEYMOON JOURNEY

Met Defeat at Spokane, but Enjoyed the Trip Anyhow as Mrs. "Jack" Was Along.

Still limping from the terrific strain put upon his right leg by John Berg, light-heavyweight champion wrestler of the world, in a match at Spokane, Wash., April 26, Jack Harbertson has returned home defeated, but in no way discouraged by his experience with the Portland chiropractor. He had intended wrestling "Ted" Thies at La Grande, Ore., and Scholer, at San Francisco, but the injury he suffered as a result of the "too" hold Berg unexpectedly clamped on him made it necessary for these bouts to be cancelled. "It would have been folly for me to have wrestled anyone within so short a time after I was injured," he said last night, "but I have now had nearly a week's rest and my leg will soon be strong enough for me to work again with the best of them."

"This fellow Berg," he added, "sure sprung a new one on me when he got that too hold. I was expecting him to try for a body scissors—he a great leg wrestler, too—but in some way, I can't explain just how, he got hold of my foot with a powerful leverage and when I tried to break loose, I simply helped him along."

Berg, Harbertson says, is a chiropractor and has a big practice in Portland, Oregon, his home town. "I can say this for him, too," the Ogden grappler declared further, "he is every inch a gentleman, a total abstainer from liquor, tobacco and other narcotics, a clean wrestler and a credit to the game. I have never met a finer fellow in all my experience and I sure would like to get a return match with him in Ogden."

"Jack" was questioned about his prospective bout with Mike Yokel and stated that he would like to meet both Yokel and Berg this month. "My bout with Yokel, however, will not be staged on May 7th," he said, "as they were to give me ten days' notice of the definite date. I have not yet heard from Hearren, but expect he has been waiting for me to get back from the coast. I will probably get in touch with him tomorrow or Thursday and will then know more about the proposition."

Aside from his defeat at Spokane, Harbertson's trip was a genuine pleasure outing. Mrs. "Jack" being along to make it a regular "honeymoon" affair, Ben Petriex accompanied them to Seattle and remained there to pass a number of days, being his brother, who is a "Sammy" at Camp Lewis. The newlyweds stopped over in Seattle and visited Camp Lewis, Portland and San Francisco.

While his match with Yokel looms in the offing, the Ogden light-heavyweight cannot forget his experience with Berg and will not be satisfied until he is at least given an opportunity to retrieve his defeat. "I got the first fall on Berg," he declares, "and I am confident I would never fall into the trap set for me to win the second."

DES MOINES TO RETAIN
BASEBALL FRANCHISE

Des Moines, Ia., May 6.—Mayor Fairweather, owner of the local western league club, said today that for the present at least the club would remain in Des Moines instead of being transferred to Peoria, Ill., as had been contemplated. It was said the large attendance at yesterday's game influenced the decision.

The Canadian Government has passed an order in council reducing the pay of civil servants serving overseas to their military pay.

SERGEANT CADDOCK
DEFEATS HUSSANE

Kansas City, Mo., May 6.—Sergeant Earl Caddock, United States national army, world heavyweight wrestling champion, tonight won from Yussif Hussane of Dallas, Texas, taking two straight falls. He obtained the first fall in 47:30 and the second in 6:23. The army man won both falls by the head scissors and bar arms. In the latter part of the bout he obtained his hold but Hussane wriggled free. Almost immediately Caddock obtained the same hold and soon pinned his opponent's shoulders to the mat. At no time did Hussane appear to give the champion serious concern.

CUMBERLAND HAS
WILLARD-FULTON
FIGHT PLAN TOO

Maryland City Proposes Financial Method Very Similar to Offer From Ogden Men.

Baltimore, May 6.—Cumberland, Md., wants to stage the Jess Willard-Fred Fulton bout for the world heavyweight championship. It also declares it has the method and it plans work out, Uncle Sam will down the biggest purse.

The men who are trying to secure the battle for Cumberland are not promoters, but officials and business men and they insist that their reasons are purely patriotic. They will not touch the matter unless earnest, over and above the cost of production, finds its way into Uncle Sam's pocket or the chests of charities.

It is claimed that Willard is to enter the match under those conditions. Two prominent men of Cumberland came to this city and talked over their plans with a local sporting writer today. They were States Attorney J. Phillip Roman and J. C. Shriver. Both are for the bout heart and soul, yet neither will take a penny for his labors.

"We told Willard the Cumberland people anxious to promote the show would want a certain percentage of the gate receipts and that all the money would be placed in the wallet which we have up there."

"Then, we told him it would be up to him and Fulton to match the sum from their gate receipts. For instance, if we received $10,000 in promoters, it would be up to the boxers to chip in and supply another $10,000. Moreover, the remainder of the money considered the boxers' end would be turned into bonds of the Liberty loan and bonds handed Willard and Fulton instead of cash."
